SouthernSound 2025 Update: Indie Country Album Ready For Sync Licensing Opportunities

Thirteen Originally Written, AI-Crafted Tracks Ready for Film, TV, and Commercials

MADISON, AL - April 23, 2025 Following the March 26 debut of SouthernSound 2025, the 13-track country album is ready for sync licensing opportunities, and industry pros can explore demos and one-sheets at <https://southernsound.us/sync-licensing>. The album is poised to bring its heartfelt ballads, uptempo anthems, and quirky feel-good tracks to film, TV, and commercials, offering a fresh sound for music supervisors.

Written by Steve Celuch and produced using revolutionary AI technology, SouthernSound 2025 blends classic country storytelling with modern innovation. Standout tracks include “When You Held My Little Finger,” a tender ballad about lifelong love, ideal for emotional dramas; “Let’s Kick It Up,” a high-energy anthem perfect for a national truck commercial highlighting rugged performance or a dramatic intro of rodeo to its fan base; and “Smart Ass,” a quirky feel-good anthem with a playful tone, suited for comedic TV scenes or commercials.

Steve, a former NASA support contractor and GWU Strategic PR Master’s grad, has crafted songs for both male and female voices, making them versatile for covers or sync placements. “I’m excited to share SouthernSound 2025 with the industry,” says Steve. “These songs are ready to bring stories to life on screen.”
